Special Information for University programs:

Simucase is an online simulation that allows students (and others) the opportunity to practice gathering information and writing/developing evaluations. Because it's entirely online, and because it helps to develop critical skills for emerging SLPs, it's ideal for professors/instructors looking for supports to finish their courses online. PRC and Saltillo both contributed to two AAC case studies and are offering them on a complimentary basis for the next year to educators and students. Enter promo code PRCSALTILLO; must have a Simucase account to use.
