MILLVILLE, N.J., – A local facility celebrated National Manufacturing Day and also kicked off National Disabilities Employment Awareness Month for October.

In Millville, New Jersey Packaging and Fulfillment opened its doors on Thursday to the community to celebrate the annual event, which aims to showcase careers in manufacturing.

The manufacturing company, with another location in New Brunswick, is a division of Easter Seals which is a program that provides employment for those with special needs.

As a provider of services to many manufacturing and small businesses in South and Central Jersey, the two facilities employ more than 300 people on a daily basis who have a disability or special need.

The company offers local businesses packing services at competitive prices while equipping participants with manufacturing skills and providing income opportunities.
